Dear Readers/ Research Scholars,

Talent is the salient feature of an individual which makes him to be the outstanding person of his field. We find so many youngsters who are having various talents. But all these youngsters are not able to prove their talents or achieve their goals. The only reason for this is lack of encouragement. Encouragement is the essential thing which enables a man to prove what he is. If proper encouragement is given in the right direction the talented youth will prove its mettle and brings laurels to the country. So it is the first and foremost duty of everybody to encourage the talented persons. Keeping in view this fact IJSIMR extends its encouragement to the younger generation of research field. I humbly request the youngsters to come forward and utilize this opportunity.
